

NSF IRES FLOOD RESILIENCE PROGRAM

Application for Field Research in the Netherlands

Application Information

Please read the application thoroughly and answer all questions completely. Incomplete applications will not be processed.

The application process consists of three rounds: a letter of intent (LOI), a full research proposal, and an interview. In the first round, please type, combine, and submit the application form, LOI, and Curriculum Vitae (or resume) as one PDF file (no '.zip' files) to ires-frp@tamu.edu by October 15, 2023. You will be notified by the end of November 2023 of whether you are encouraged to submit a full research proposal. Full research proposals are due by January 7, 2024. In the final round, the interview will be by invitation only, and detailed instructions will be provided to applicants who advance in the application process.

Since this program entails travel abroad, applicants must possess a valid passport with an expiration date after October 31, 2024. Selected students will be asked to submit a photocopy of their valid passport by March 4, 2024.

At the time of application and travel (May 12 to June 22, 2024), applicants must be U.S. citizens or permanent residents, over the age of 18, and attending one of the following partner institutions: Texas A&M University (Galveston or College Station), Jackson State University, or the University of Puerto Rico at Mayagüez.

We especially encourage applicants from underrepresented groups, including women, persons with disabilities, Black, Hispanic, Native Americans, Alaska Natives, Native Hawaiians, and other Pacific Islanders.

Statement of Confidentiality: The information contained in this application will only be used to determine the applicant's eligibility for the NSF IRES – Flood Resilience Program. All information received will be kept confidential.

Note: A virtual orientation for selected students will take place on April 4, 2024. Attendance at the orientation is mandatory to ensure your effective participation in the program.
